MEDICAL AUTHORITY SLAMS COFFEE USE Says It's All Right as a Medicine But Not as a Food—Contains Destructive Drug Caffeine.

"Ten and coffee are not in any sense food, therefore cannot add constructive tissue to our bodies," declares Dr. Joseph M. Alkin, of Omaha, Neb. "This is not the worst of it," says Dr. Alkin. "Any substance that is not wholly a food, or that contains destructive in excess of constructive elements for tissue building, is harmful."

"The caffeine and theine in coffee and tea are cerebral stimulants, the tannin is an astringent, affecting especially the muscular fibres in the intestinal walls. They are useful as medicine, but not as food. Tea and coffee inebriety is increasing more rapidly than our native born population."

Note.—Children not only desire but often need a warm nourishing table drink as much as their parents. Consequently with the banishment of the coffee pot from the family table instant Postum finds ready favor.
